

Geocachers in Hawaii to meet Captain Cooked Author

Geocaching is a big outdoors activity of searching out hidden 'caches' using GPS devices. Over 800,000 geocachers world-wide are said to be active participants.

Now, there is a novel, entitled Captain Cooked, where geocachers can read for clues in the book and then use GPS to search for a Hawaiian war club hidden somewhere on the Big Island of Hawai'i, and worth $5,000 when discovered.

Author S.P. Grogan will be in the islands this February signing copies of Captain Cooked at various bookstores in O'ahu and the Big Island, but special to geocaching fans he will be at two Meet & Greet Events, open to the public, for anyone interested in island geocaching.

Dates are:

Sunday, February 20th 10am, Big Island Geocachers at Island Lava Java restaurant, 75-5799 Ali'i Dr., on Kona Bay in Kailua-Kona

Friday, February 25th, Pau Hana Meet & Greet with O'ahu Geocachers, 6-8 p.m. at Kaka'ako Kitchen, 1200 Ala Moana Blvd. (Ward Centre)--Public Welcome

For other book signing times and places in Hawai'i by S.P. Grogan visit www.CaptainCooked.com or contact the publisher at AddisonHighsmith@gmail.com

Also, visit www.geocaching.com

Press Release: Addison & Highsmith Publishers

Captain Cooked $16.95

ISBN: 978-0-9801164-1-0

